It is understood that $2,000,000 has been asked for the property, but it is possible that a long term lease might be secured by the university. Should this field be turned over to the football management, even at a rent greater than that paid for the present gridforn, it is believed that the gross receipts for one season would show a comfortable balance. The New York public has taken to football with an enthusiasm that is infectious. They want a representative 'Varsity eleven, and Columbia, in time, is expected to provide a team that will make all of the Big Four hustle. This fall Columbia played Princeton, Yale and the Carlisle Indians in this city. All of these games drew big gate receipts, considering that thousands of deadheads locked on from the vinduct, the Speedsay and the binds beyond, Had the kames with harvard and Pennsylvania been played here, too, there would have been more good money with would certainly have made a balance of several thousands of deadheads locked on the would have been more good money with would beat the Herreshoff craft. Another character at the League meeting was Edward Everett Bel. In 1880 Bell startled local baseball cranks by declaring that if Comiskey's Chicago Brotherhood team was beaten out by the New Yorks he would have his long flowing hair, reaching to his shoulders, cut off in public. Later he invited a large number of cranks to a public hair cutting in a Broadway barber shop. Bell turned from baseball to pugilism in 1802 and was the man who took Charley Mitchell down to Miner's Bowery Theatre one night, where the English pugilist had a run-in with Jim Corbett, then matched to fight Sullivan. Since then Bell has been in turn a petron of cycling and bowling, and has even taken part in politics. His appearance among the magnates created surprise, but he explained it by saying that he thought he might run across his old friend, Charley Comiskey, who now owns the Chicago American League club.

Both Ruhlin and Jeffries have now $2,500 up with Al Smith. George Siler of Chicago has been chosen referee.

Billy belaney, the well-known sporting man, arrived from San Francisco yesterday. Delaney discovered Jeffries and prepared the championship from Bob Fitzsimmons. Billy will have charge of Jeffries's condition for the coming tilt with Ruhlin Delaney says that his visit in the East is simply a private one, and that he came here to see his folks. He occiared that he would remain in New York about two weeks and then join Jeffries, who intends to train at West Baden. Besides Delaney, Jeffries will be handled by Jack McCornick, the wrestler, Jack Jeffries, and possibly another good man. Jeffries is now in good health, despite all reports to the contrary.

Mayor Harrison Will Stop Prize Fighting in

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.-Mayor Harrison will He issued an order to the acting Chief of Police this afternoon ordering him to enforce the ruling passed at the recent meeting of the City fathers. "If the game is too bad the City fathers. "If the game is too bot for the Council it certainly is too bad for me," was his Honor's comment on the resolution. This puts an end to all stories that Mayor Harrison would not sign the recent ruling of the Council. Reports were out that he would allow the shows for which permits had been issued. It was binted that the Mayor might then be amenable to the law for granting remits on his own authority for fight shows, which were directly contrary to the State laws. The above order, however, does away with all question, and it is even thought that boxing at the Chicago Athletic Association will be stopped and the slate wiped clean.

The first game in the tournament of the American Amateur Hockey League will be played to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink. The opposing teams will be the New York Athletic Club and the Hockey Club of New York

Many rumors are now being circulated about the old Cup champion Defender, which is still hauled out at City Island. It has been said that she will race again, and one story that gained credence yesterday was that Thomas W. Lawson, who is building a new yacht in Boston, was trying to buy the boat in order to use her as a trial yacht for his in order to use her as a trial yacht for his new one. The Defender was built in 1805 to meet the Valkyrie by a syndicate composed of W. K. Venderbilt, E. D. Morgan and C. Oliver Iselin. Before the last Cupraces she was used as a trial boat for the Columbia and was managed by W. B. Duncan, Jr. It cost several thousand dollars to put the yacht in shape for last season's racing. The yacht is now in very poor condition and the owners decided that as her racing drys are over she should be sold. Mr. Iselin, acting for the syndicate has sold the yacht to M. Samuels & Son of Newsrk, a firm of dealers in old metal.

During her last races the yacht constantly showed that her days of usefulness were over. Several of the frames snapped, the rivets broke and corroded so that they could be picked out with the fingers and the aluminum topsides decayed, fo put the boat in shape now she would have to be almost rebuilt and even if she were in shape, she would not be fast enough to win races and it is probable that she will son be broken up.

International Wrestling Routs at Grand Central Palace.

About 2,000 people attended the inter-Central Palace and saw some very interesting sport. The preliminaries brought out a tests were exciting from start to finish. Six bouts were decided last night. The conbouts were decided last night. The conditions were Grace-Roman style, strangle hold barred, each bout was limited to twenty minutes. Charley White was referee.

The best exhibition of the night was between Pardello and Emil Salva, Salva weighed fully ten pounds more than the Italian, and was in better condition, but Pardello knew more about the game. The struggle lasted twenty minutes and Pardello ecceived the award. Bethner had an easy task with Charles Andreas of the Carl Abbs Association, throwing him in five minutes. Piening made his first appearance since he was thrown by Paul Pons. He met Honore Salva and defeated his man with comparative ease. The finals will be decided to-morrow night. Summaries:

Patsey Sweeney and George McFadden Fight

Boston, Dec. 19 .- Patsey Sweeney of Manboxed a fifteen round draw before the Lafayette Business Men's Association here to-night. some misunderstanding it was 10:30 o'clock before the men could agree on a referee, and Patsey Healy was finally chosen. In the early part of the fight McFadden resorted to all kinds of foul methods.

This was more noticeable during the eighth round, when he repeatedly used his elbows. The audience yelled "foul" time and again and from that out McFadden was more careful. The men fought everd moment of the fifteen rounds. Sweney did all of the leading using a straight left and landing it repeatedly. Up to the tenth round there was not a particle of advantage for either man. In the eleventh round Sweney crossed his right several times with good effect and had his man weak. McFadden hugged him and in tds way managed to stay the round out. It was a terrifie fight during the next three rounds with matters even. Two thousand people witnessed the bout. before the men could agree on a referee, and

AMY WILKES KEPT BUSY.

JAMES MURPHY'S PACING MARE IN

NUMEROUS BRUSHES ON SPEEDWAY. Trotter Alves, After Being Beaten in One Bace - Moth Miller Carries Off the Honors in Several Trials Against Fast Horses. Amy Wilkes, James Murphy's pacing mare, did more fast work on the Speedway yesterday than any other horse, except, perhaps, the dusty pacer, Moth Miller, which was very much in evidence. The major portion of the afternoon's brushing devolved pen them and they went to the front nobly, the latter being more frequently a winner; but Amy was a factor every time in very fast company. She tackled the redoubtable trotter, Alves, driven by Nathan Straus, losing the first brush and leaving the second in doubt. The first time down they turned together all right, but Alves began to prance and break as Amy shot away from him and for a few seconds it looked as though the mare was going to leave him at the post. Mr. Murphy tried to hold her, but she gained two lengths or more before Alves settled down to business and began to trot. As they swept around the bend Alves was of rocks, and from that point to the finishing post the bay gelding drew away and was a half length in front crossing the finishsomewhat better. It was the most exciting contest of the day, and probably as good a drive as either Mr. Straus or Mr. Murphy ever made. They kept their horses right down to business and got a lot of speed out of them. As they went down from the bend it looked as though first one, then the other, was in the lead. The sidewalk experts, was in the lead. The sidewark experse, and there was a big crowd present, rushed out into the road in their excitement and desire to see it all. Both drivers urged their horses, each doing his utmost to shake the other off; but the trotter and pacer clung to each other as though they were hooked to desire to see it all. Both drivers urged their horses, each doing his utmost to shake the other off; but the trotter and pacer clung to each other off; but the trotter and pacer clung to each other as though they were hooked to pole and passed the line that way.

Amy Wilkes was next started against the dusty Boston pacer, with Dr. David Randell up. They had two scorching brushes. Moth Miller was going so fast that Amy could do nothing with him. She was beaten in both brushes quite handly. In fact, there is no horse on the drive, just at present, that can beat the dusty Bostonian from a quarter to haif a mile. Dr. II. D. Gill's big bay side-wheeler, Jack, which formerly led the crowd, started three times with Moth, but the latter went away so fast that Jack's heart was broken each time before they had covered a sixteenth of a mile and he went hopelessly into the air. Nathan Straus started Aives against the Moth once and was beaten.

Fred Gerker's great trotter, The Monk, was out during the early part of the afternoon. He was not urged to his extreme speed, although he buckied into the fast links when he started down with Coxey, driven by Capt. C. H. McDonald. They went down twice from the Dykeman street end, but The Monk had too much speed for Coxey and wen handly each time. Nathan Straus arrived on the scene with Aives just as Mr. Gerken refused, saying his horse had had enough work for the day. The creat geiding is looking in fine shape for his brush with Alice Barnes on Saturday, if weather and track favor.

Dainty little Alice was also one of the noticeable figures of the afternoon. E. E. smathers is getting her into good shape for the contest, by which some worthy charity will benefit to the extent of $200. It was not Mr. Smather's intention to do more than jow his mare, but, noticing C. McBride going down at a fast clip behind a big-gaited bay trotter, he set sail for him and passed him somewhere in the vicinity of the point of rocks. George Spear, who trains Mr. Smathers's horses on the Speedway before ne wick's horses on the Speedway before next spring.

George Grote was behind his new trotter, Mike, 2:17%, a sorrel gelding with a very handy way of going. He showed quite a lot of speed in two or three catch brushes and then he fell across C. Riley behind Mahlon, They got a good start above the bend and Mahlon made a splendid fight for it until they were about half way down to the point of rocks, when Mike sailed away as Mahlon went to a break.

Michael Reid speeded through the stretches several times with The Farmer, George Coleman drove Hattie Walters, but confined himself to jogging and watching the others brush. A. B. dwathing jogged his term through the stretches, Jack Curry and Mr. Wright, who trains Mr. Joyce's horses, hooked D. Lamar's Tesla and Mr. Joyce's shorses, hooked D. Mr. Murphy and Mr. Curry will have a brush on Friday with the teams, Tom and Lotus and Edward D. and Nettlie K. and Nettie K.

W. H. Clark of Yonkers drove Woodsboy;
John F. Cockerill jogged Honor Bright, sending her at a good galt through the stretches once or twice. John Donnelly drove Glenmere Boy, but did not brush him. Several very fast teams were out. W. C. Floyd-Jones's team Knoxena and Pepplina appeared to be going with their usual speed; Mrs. Martine of Mount Vernon drove a speedy pair and Mr. Ryan drove a good-looking team. Ike Fleming drove the pacer Lucille, 2:14.

JOHN L. IN A LAWSUIT.

Former Champion John L. Sullivan will Court. The noted heavyweight pugilist has brought suit against Thomas Allen, formerly of the American Tobacco Company, James F. Mack of 257 Brondway is Sullivan's lawyer. In the action Sullivan declares that Allen owes him in the neighborhood of $12,000. about a year ago last August Sullivan opened a saloon at ees Sixth avenue.

Allen formed Sullivan's acquaintance there at the time, according to the papers in the suit, was the owner of 98 per cent. of the 1177 Broadway. This company also ran the Dante's Inferno Cafe in the same building.

So to further the interests of the ex-champion and the two, it is alleged, entered into a copartnership. In a talk with The Sun reporter last night Sullivan said:

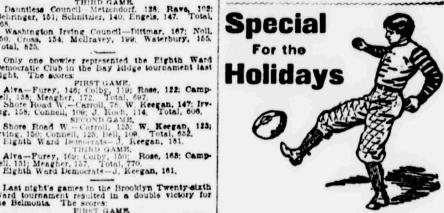

"The terms of our partnership were that I was to have 50 per cent. of the entire stock of the company in addition to 50 per cent. of the entire stock of the company in addition to 50 per cent. of the net profits. I simed a contract to this effect, which was to continue until January, 1904. On June I last, in accordance with a well-defined plan, alien usurped the entire management of the business and took control of a place and all the books.

Tould not get any redress, so in order to get even I have taken this action. Allen has acted in an unfair and unmany way. When I came to the café the recepts were only $2,000 a month. Inside of a little while they increased to $6,000 a month. While I was at the place, which was about six mouths, the profits were $48,000, of which sum I did not even receive a penny."

Lawyer Mack says that Allen was served with the summons and complaint only on Dec. 17, although the section was sworn on Nov. 28. Two days before Allen was served New York State Detective Bub went to Metuchen, N. J., where Mr. Allen resides, and remained there until Dec. 17. On that day Bab followed Allen on a train to New York and then served the papers. and then served the papers.

Mack informed the reporter that the cafe was sold about two receibs are for $14,000 and that Sullivan is suing for $7,000, half of
